Sophomore Summer Reading - World Literature 10 Honors

Over the summer, rising World Literature 10 Honors students must read one novel of their choosing from the options listed on this page. While students are not required to take notes, they should read for a thorough understanding of the text and should be prepared to write a paper about the text during the first week of school. Students should also bring the novel with them on the first day of class. It is suggested that you purchase the story that you select as you will be referencing it throughout the first semester.

Summer Reading Options:

- Frankenstein by Mary Shelley
- In the Time of the Butterflies by Julia Alvarez
- The Bonesetter's Daughter by Amy Tan
- My Name is Asher Lev by Chaim Potok
